Norman Finch provides a fascinating insight into the life of a young man growing up in Dubbo in the 1930s and 1940s. He left school early and worked in a number of industries around Dubbo, including the dairy and forestry industries, before finding employment as a mechanic at Bloomfield Bros. Garage. By the early 1950s he was married and living in North Dubbo with his wife and infant child. During this period he recalls the events leading up to the 1955 flood, and the damage the family home sustained.
