Full transcript

In this interview Albert Cook talks about his experiences of the 1955 flood. At the time of the flood he was a young man living at the family home located on the corner of Cobra and Macquarie Street and working as a motor mechanic at Budden Bros. Garage in Macquarie Street, Dubbo.

Transcript Excerpt

(I): When were you first aware of a problem with the river?

(S): Well, about 5 o'clock in the morning, Mum woke me up and said, "Albert, the water's coming in Cobra Street." Now, I've never doubted
